Art Unit: 3744

DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's amendment filed 8/14/09 is acknowledged. Claims 1-13 are pending.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 9-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matsumoto (WO 01/06876A1) in view of Sanpei Hideo (JP 411201624A). Matsumoto discloses (figure 1) a casing in which an antibacterial agent such as allyl isothiocyanate impregnated in a medium such as a porous body is sealed; the case is characterized in that the thickness of one wall (lid 22) of the case is formed thinner than the wall (13) opposing the wall (22). Matsumoto does not disclose that the case is formed from polypropylene and the thin wall is formed to allow gas permeation of the antibacterial agent. Sanpei discloses (figure 5) that a lid (25) having a relative thin thickness is formed to allow permeation of the antibacterial agent as the lid is moved up and down for a purpose of controlling the amount of antibacterial agent to be volatilized. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Sanpei's teaching in Matsumoto's device for a purpose of controlling the amount of antibacterial agent to be volatilized. Regarding claim 11, Matsumoto does not disclose that case is formed by the assembly of a plurality of small cases detachably fixed to each other. Sanpei discloses (figure 2) an antibacterial device (13) that is formed by the assembly of a plurality of small cases (15) detachably fixed to each other for a purpose of prolong the life of the antibacterial agent. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Sanpei's teaching in Matsumoto's device for a purpose of prolong the life of the antibacterial agent. Regarding claim 10, It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to use polypropylene for casing, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-8 and 12-13 are allowed.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3744
